Ornamental Lights For Voltaire Street

BETTER ILLUMINATION FOR MAIN HIGHWAY INTO OCEAN BEACH

With Councilman Dowell casting the only dissenting vote, the city council this week voted for the installation of ornamental lights on Voltaire street in conformity with the original petition for the improvement signed by sixty-three per cent of the property owners to be assessed on the thoroughfare. It is stated that several of those who had signed the original petition also signed a protest against the work, but the council took the stand that property owners should realize that when they sign a petition for a public improvement, this expression of their wishes is final. Installation of the new lighting system will be started soon and the work will be rushed to completion adding greatly to the attractiveness and safety of the main artery into Ocean Beach.

STRAND THEATRE

Saturday, Hoot Gibson in "The Silent Rider." The story of a resourceful cowboy, hopelessly in love with a girl looking for a red-headed husband. Suspense that will lead you from thrill to laugh and back again through more intense and pleasurable emotions than you ever saw in any western action picture. And this is the best thing Hoot's ever done. The scenic will be "Sweden Today." A news weekly and a comedy included in the bill.

Sunday and Monday, Eddie Cantor in "Special Delivery," a hilarious comedy of the misadventures of a letter carrier, a policeman and a fireman, three musketeers of a different type, rivals in love but comrades in a pinch in which a crooked stock promoter using the mails to defraud is arrested in his getaway with the girl. "Fables" and a comedy, "A Punch in the Nose."

Tuesday and Wednesday Esther Ralston and Raymond Hatton in "Fashions For Women." This is a picture that will appeal to all. It has a good story in which Raymond Hatton has the comedy and he is good. The style show is the most wonderful ever seen and should appeal to every woman. Some of the most beautiful gowns ever seen will be shown and through it all you will be entertained with a good picture and story. A comedy and news weekly also.

Thursday and Friday, Buster Keaton in "The Battling Butler" with Sally O'Neil. Dan Cupid never played a funnier prank than when he put the boxing gloves on Buster and made him fight to win a bride by posing as the famous battling butler. And then the real battler appeared on the scene. Then begins a whirlwind of fun, with Buster winning the laugh championship. A comedy and "The Fire Fighters," a picture that grips, thrills and startles. The greatest fireman's picture ever made.

Every child attending the Strand on Thursday and Friday, to see the "Fire Fighters" will be given a red bird flyer free. You will have barrels of fun with it.

RESIDENCE PARTLY BURNED

The home of G. F. McKenzie at 4828 Santa Monica avenue, was partly burned last Saturday afternoon. The fire is stated to have been due to spontaneous combustion in an oil and paint store room at the residence. Damage was estimated at $300.

LOYAL BEACH BOOSTER

WINS HIGH PROMOTION

WITH BIG FIRM

In recognition of his acknowledged ability, artistry, skill and faithful performance of duty, Roy E. Peebles, a highly respected resident of Ocean Beach and widely and favorably known in the building trade, has won most deserved promotion to the position of superintendent with the Childers Construction company of 1056 University avenue, San Diego.

Mr. Peebles resides with his family at 4739 Coronado avenue and as a taxpayer and property owner for over eight years he is a beach booster of the first water. He is well remembered for his successful endeavors as foreman of construction on the new Kraft building, recently completed at Newport avenue and Bacon street, and many other fine housing jobs in the beach section attest the excellence of his workmanship.

As superintendent with the Childers Construction company, an incorporated firm for the purpose of designing, building, engineering and financing, Mr. Peebles will use the utmost efforts to further the interests of the beach districts and for the promotion of a great building program in the seashore section of San Diego. The phone number of this firm is Hillcrest 7070 and a model home has been constructed at the University avenue office, where the public is most cordially welcomed.

Mr. Peebles states that a special discount will be given to those desiring to build in Ocean Beach, while the advantages of expert designing and proper financing are also afforded customers of the Childers Construction company.

GIRLS' AND BOYS' COMPETITIVE SWIMMING MEET AT M. B. PLUNGE

Under the skillful training and expert direction of Calvin Spade, the able lifeguard at Ocean Beach, the following girls and boys of the Point Loma high school swimming class have passed a special examination with high percentages, and are all eligible for the Red Cross Competitive Swimming Meet to be held at the Mission Beach plunge this Saturday night, May 28:

Junior girls — Phyllis Near, Phyllis Near and Althea Osborne. Senior boys — James Cooper, Sam Lipsett and Clifford Wells. Junior Boys — Wayne Hewitt, Paul Driscoll, John Castine, Jean Fowler, Frank Scheider, Ralph Storm, George Cunningham, Leroy Lenhart, Bud Shinton, Bertrand McGoffin and Ellis McGoffin.

The members of the class each wrote an essay on "Artificial Respiration," with very creditable results. They were also required to undergo the following tests: Disrobe in deep water and swim 100 yards; surface dive in 6 to 8 feet of water, recovering 10-lb. weight and swimming 30 feet with it; correct approaches and carries of a most difficult nature; breaking back strangle hold and front strangle hold; resuscitation and proper handling of a person when rescued from water.

The Red Cross competitive meet to be held at the Mission Beach plunge this Saturday night, May 28, when no professionals will be permitted to compete for medals, is the first life-saving meet of its kind and will be made an annual affair. Dr. G. J. Couvrette is chairman of the life-saving division of Red Cross; Calvin Spade is one of the directors and trained and has immediate charge of the Point Loma high school class; George Evans is captain of the corps; Dennis O'Brien, first lieutenant and examiner; L. C. Fleetwood, director and examiner, and Mrs. Peggy Hunsaker was special examiner for the girls' division. The competition tonight will be open to the public and promises to be highly interesting and enjoyable.

"MOTHER'S JEWELS"

Eleven little girls from Mission Beach took part in a program given recently by the "Mothers' Jewels" missionary society of the First M. E. church, San Diego. They represented little Eskimos and were dressed in Eskimo costumes, trimmed in white fur, with white caps. The money taken from the mite-boxes of the children amounted to $35, and will help to build an orphanage for Eskimo children at Seward, Alaska. Those taking part were, Elaine Harris, Jennie Marie Franks, Betty Ann Mackin, Dorothy Arnold, Harriet Werre, Ruth Borge, Colleen Roberts, Eleanor Williams, Doris and Lucille Franks, and Lucille DeMent.

DINNER AND DANCE GUESTS

A number of people from Mission Beach attended the dinner and dance given by the P. T. A. ladies of San Ysidro, at the Civic Center clubhouse, May 25th. A fine dinner was enjoyed and a pleasant time in dancing and entertainment, by Judge Claude L. and Mrs. Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Cook, Mr. Allan Benjamin and Miss Marie Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Walters.

FRED HERTEL SELLS

SUNSET CLIFFS SERVICE STATION TO W. H. HENSLER

An important change in the business world of Ocean Beach took place this week when the Sunset Cliffs Service Station, at Newport avenue and DeFoe street, changed proprietorship. W. H. Hensler is the new owner, having purchased the station from Fred Hertel, who originally built it about a year ago and had conducted it ever since with marked success. Mr. Hertel and his family will temporarily remove their residence to Normal Heights, returning later to make their permanent home here.

Mr. Hensler, the new proprietor of the Sunset Cliffs Service Station, is an experienced garage and station man, and resides with his family on Coronado avenue. He will have the able assistance of his younger brother, Sylvester Hensler in the conduct of the station, while the competent services of Raleigh Fowler, who has been connected with the station for several months, will be also retained. Mrs. Hensler, mother of the Hensler brothers, will occupy the cottage adjoining the service station.

"SQUARE DEAL" HAYES BUILDS CYCLE PLANES A LA LINDBERGH

Ocean Beach is keeping step with the aviation "Spirit of St. Louis" now sweeping the world. An attractive and altogether practical cycle plane has been built by "Square Deal" Hayes, the expert and industrious machinist in charge of the repair department connected with Kierstead's Service Station at Voltaire and Cable streets. It is a very nifty looking recreation device for youngsters and was built for little Dean Hayes by his father in odd hours. The cycle plane is a safe and sane novelty and Mr. Hayes already has orders for a dozen or more.

Golden State
News of Interest to All

J. L. Cranston, the Hemet district forest ranger, announces that the federal forestry department has allotted $17,500 to the San Bernardino national forest for watershed protection.

A stampede has been in progress from Bakersfield to Basin Creek, sixty miles east, on Pinto mountain, where a strike running from $100 to $300 a ton in gold from free milling ore, was reported authoritatively last week.

The Postal Telegraph Company was recently ordered by the railroad commission to appear May 12 to explain why they have discontinued their office at Pomona. Residents of the locality objected when the company closed its office March 31.

Ordained as a Baptist minister on April 22, Thomas P. Dixon of San Bernardino, and his bride will leave May 23 for Managua, Nicaragua. Mr. Dixon has accepted a call as pastor of the Managua Baptist church by the Seaboard Faith mission.

The new Colfax Memorial hall, erected by public subscription at a cost of $15,000 in honor of those who gave their lives for their country in the World War, was dedicated at Colfax April 23. Lt. Governor Byron Pitts was the speaker of the day.

Articles of incorporation of the Pacific Water Company, a $3,000,000 San Francisco corporation, were filed last week with Frank C. Jordan, secretary of state. The Citrus Realty Company, 131,000,000 Los Angeles concern, also filed its papers with Jordan.

Traver, "ghost city" of San Joaquin valley, a thriving mart of a great grain-shipping district on the Southern Pacific in early days, resounded with life again on April 24, when native sons and daughters from all sections of California "came home." Each spring former Traver residents journey back to renew old-time acquaintances.

Concrete is being poured for the foundations of the new Lucerne Hotel at Lucerne, on the east shore of Clear Lake, the townsite of the Clear Lake Beach Company. A unit of 100 rooms is to be built this year, with further additions to be made later. The cost of the entire building is estimated by Palmer & Becker, the owners, at $650,000.

The city trustees of Manteca held a special meeting this week to discuss the advisability of purchasing the Manteca water works, an offer having been made to the city through Attorney Guard Darrah at a price of $50,000. This offer was said to be $3,500 less than a previous offer made, although the water company claims to have made many improvements since that time.

The first of the location surveys for the Stockton deep water channel and harbor project are to begin within the next week. Major J. A. Dorst, army engineer from the office of District Engineer C. S. Ridley, San Francisco, arrived to take active charge of the work. Location surveys, said Major Dorst, should be completed by October 1. Two field crews of eight men each will be placed on the work.

Actual work toward improvement of Stockton's aviation field began last week. The field, located on Sharp's Lane, about five miles from the center of Stockton, will be ready for use and will be dedicated on May 7, when fifty planes fly here from the second annual aeronautical conference to be held in San Francisco, May 6. The field comprises over 180 acres and is now being graded, marked, fenced and provided with runways and indicators.

Claude Smiley, 21, a ranch laborer, sustained a narrow escape from death last week when a mowing machine blade sliced off a portion of his scalp as he lay asleep in the weeds near the Davis agricultural college farm. W. P. Hodgson of Davis was driving a tractor to which was hitched the mower and did not see the prostrate man until after the blade struck him. The injured man was rushed to the emergency hospital at Sacramento where he was treated.

Over 1,000 automobiles are entering California through the Yuma-Imperial valley gateway each week, according to figures made public by inspection officers stationed at Fort Yuma bridge. The record showed that cars entering the state during March were 4025. The inspectors state that traffic has been heavier this month than during March and it is predicted that with large numbers of Arizona residents going to the coast for the summer, the present figures will be doubled during May, June and July. According to figures available here, motor travel into California over the Lee and Bankhead highways at Yuma is heavier than the combined travel to the state over the Sunkist route at Blythe and the Old Trails highway at Needles.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, who visited Siskiyou county last year, has recently purchased the Woolley ranch near Somes Bar, where he will spend his summer vacations. There is now under way a log lodge. It is hewn from Siskiyou county trees.

A new textile mill is being prepared for business at Corcoran which will have as its principal output cords for auto tires. The company has taken over the old Corcoran sugar mill property and made an approximate investment of $170,000 in equipment and machinery.

Investigating recent mysterious nocturnal noises in the garret of his hotel, C. W. Miller, Hanford hotelman, discovered that they proceeded from a nest of young owls, white, fuzzy and large eyed, lately hatched. The mother owl was away when the nestlings were captured, put in a box with a coarse screen in front, and placed near the nest. The wise old owl, mindful of her duty to provide for her young, proceeded to forage for food and the first night after the birds were in captivity the parent owls laid ten squirrels in front of the cage, the second and third nights twenty each, and on the fourth night twelve squirrels were brought in through the skylight and laid before the box containing the three young owls. Miller supplied the young birds with their regular rations and they are already beginning to feather. He believes that the mother has supplied evidence that the owl, of this variety, is a friend of the farmer in the removing of squirrels and will later turn the young ones loose to catch squirrels for themselves.

Giles S. Caldwell of Oakland, has been officially recognized as the outstanding hero of 1926. Before the assembled student body of the University of California, he was awarded the Red Cross medal that once each year goes to the man performing the most singular feat in behalf of mankind. According to the citation, Caldwell and a companion, Frank Perry, were at Stinson Beach on March 27, 1926. They heard screams for help from two girls who had ventured too far into the surf. Plunging into the water, the two swam out to the scene. Caldwell fought his way to the shore through a treacherous surf with one of the girls, at the same time successfully directing Perry in bringing in the other. The girls were Jennie and Dorothy Walker of San Francisco. Dorothy was revived through first aid methods by Caldwell. He was unable to restore life to Jennie.

An old oxen yoke, used by the father of Mrs. Clara Miller of Hammononton when he first came to California in 1829, is to be given to the Marysville Parlor of Native Sons and will be placed in the old historic Wells Fargo office building at Timbuctoo along with other pioneer relics. The Native Daughters aided in the restoration of this old landmark, which stands on the Tahoe-Ukiah State Highway in the Yuba foothills, once a rich mining section. For a long time the old yoke was the property of Charles Wilbur of Sutter county, who died last November and who before passing promised to give it to the Native Sons as a memento of early days.

A hitherto undiscovered earthquake fault has been found at the foot of the San Gabriel mountains, north of Claremont and Pomona and San Bernardino valleys in Southern California by Rollin Eckis, honor student in geology at Pomona College. Eckis was the first to prove the existence of the fault by the land forms and deductive method. He has done remarkable work in unraveling the geology of the region and in a recently published paper he also points out the great changes that have been wrought in the San Gabriel mountains through the effect of running water on their surfaces.

Emily Lindley, 25 years of age, of Porterville, is expected to lose the sight of one eye as the result of injuries sustained when a horse disputed the right of way with the car in which Miss Lindley was riding with J. N. Colquitt, also of Porterville. The animal is said to have suddenly dashed out of brush alongside the road, jumped upon the running board, on to the radiator, kicking out the windshield, a piece of glass striking Miss Lindley in the eye. Colquitt sustained minor injuries. The horse had to be killed.

Wild deer are making their home in Oakland's Sequoia park, according to a statement issued by Park Superintendent Lee S. Kerfoot. Kerfoot said that on several occasions hikers have reported seeing deer in the park and that investigation by park employees substantiates the reports. The deer have not escaped from the cages in the Oakland zoo, which is now below Sequoia park, Kerfoot said. It is presumed that they entered the park from Contra Costa county and the Livermore range.

The owner of a swarm of bees at Oakville, south of St. Helena, will have a merry chase for his property if he attempts to locate them. They are now well on their way to the Atlantic coast. The first of the week a refrigerator car was loaded at the Southern Pacific station with wine consigned to New York. The bees took up their residence between the walls of the car, entering through a small hole at the eaves, and immediately settled down to their usual work.

E. L. Oleson, horticultural inspector for the West Riverside district, is the leader of a boys' horticultural club whose project is to grow trees from seeds. Much interest is being shown in the district in tree planting, both for ornamentals and for windbreaks.

Construction of permanent fenders about the center piers of the Carquinez bridge is being delayed until the war department decides the best type to be used to prevent vessels being swept from their course by the swift currents in the straits suffering damage by contact with the piers. For temporary purpose of safety barges have been anchored in the fanlike formation and connected by cables.

A trial shipment of fifteen fine Angora wool rabbits was recently started on a long ocean journey to Japan by the Angora Rabbit Products Company of San Dimas.

Evening
Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

AN INVENTION

When Uncle John told Douglas and Dorothy that he was going to take them to hear a lecture, they were just a wee bit disappointed. A lecture sounded rather unlike an adventure or seeing some very great wonder. It sounded as if they were to hear something such as they might hear almost any time in school. They were eager for wonders since they had seen so many! Even the more eager all the time, especially when they were starting out to hear or see something new.

"Perhaps," said Dorothy hopefully, "it will be interesting."

"Maybe," agreed Douglas. "There might be a lot of very fine pictures to be seen."

"Oh, but Uncle John called it a 'lecture,'" said Dorothy.

"There are often pictures with lectures, for they feel that lectures will be better with nice illustrations," said Douglas, "and in that they are right."

"Oh, I hope so," said Dorothy. "But anyway, Uncle John is so good that I will enjoy myself if he does and if he thinks it's a treat for us, as he does from the way he spoke."

So they went to the lecture and all that could be seen on the stage when they first got there was a curious machine.

"It doesn't look like a picture machine," whispered Douglas.

"Let's wait and hear what the man has to say about it," returned Dorothy.

Just a Wee Bit Disappointed.

thly. "We've seen so many queer machines that did such wonderful things. Maybe this is one of them."

"Maybe," said Douglas. But they had to stop talking, for the man on the stage had commenced his lecture.

He told them that the queer-looking machine was an X-ray, and then he explained how it could look through the thickest and darkest of materials and show right inside through its powerful rays.

All that he said sounded too mysterious to be true until the children were allowed to look through the machine. Douglas and Dorothy both saw through their hands and looked at the queer bones and strange appearance of their fingers.

Then they looked into the machine at walls and at various other objects and saw right through them.

"I've never seen anything so queer," said Douglas, when they were home.

"Neither have I," said Dorothy. "It makes me feel as if my hands weren't my hands at all when I see through this machine, which shows up every bone!"

"It's another one of those inventions," said Douglas, "that seems almost too wonderful to be true. And how fine the lecture was, after all!"

For not only had the children heard of the power of the X-ray through which they had looked, but they heard of a kind that doctors and dentists have which could take pictures, so that people who were ill could be made well, because the pictures showed just what was the matter with the sick people.

"It's strange," said Dorothy, "that every special thing does seem to have its own wonderful uses."

Then Uncle John told him when he was in the navy.

"The dentist told me," Uncle John said, "that they wanted to make the men very careful of the instruments they used, and so they put up signs all over such as:

"Danger!"

"Be Cautious" and Avoid Serious Accidents."

"The dentist said that the ones who heeded the notices were patients who came into the room and saw these signs and did not know what they were going to have happen!"

"But the men were careful and there was no need to worry the patients so the notices were taken down but they were terrified, as one can imagine, when they saw such signs about the walls."

"For they made the signs very prominent and extreme so none of the workers would be careless—they had not intended them to be seen by patients!" Though they might have thought," Uncle John added, "that patients were going to have their teeth fixed!"

Lots of Empty Girls

Little Jimmy had just returned from his first birthday party. His mother asked, "Jimmy, did you have a good time, and did you dance with the girls?"

"No, mother. I didn't dance once, and there were lots of empty girls, too."

WHO'S WHO & WHAT'S WHAT! IN OCEAN BEACH

Business Directory—Alphabetically Arranged
Service for "Strangers Within Our Gates"

OCEAN BEACH is famous as San Diego's greatest residential seaside community and is situated only six miles from the metropolitan district, with which it is connected by fast electric railway service and the paved coast highway. It is the most thriving and populous section of the peerless Point Loma peninsula, with ideal climate, wonderful productive soil and scenery unsurpassed. Wide avenues lead from the heights to the seashore and nearly all streets are paved and sidewalked, with a complete paving program in progress from the bay frontage to beautiful Sunset Cliffs. Ornamental lights adorn the main business section, while modern commercial structures and fine new homes, cottages and bungalow courts are constantly in course of construction. This delightful suburb has exceptionally good schools, churches, civic clubs, mail carrier service and all that makes life really worthwhile as is well attested by the appended list of prominent and progressive business interests:

New CALIFORNIA THEATER

Charlie Murray is coming back to the New California theatre, but this time he will appear in "Lost at the Front," with George Sidney, in the grandest conscription of laughs ever presented by a comedy with the war as its background. Starting Friday,

"Lost at the Front," will run the entire week, in conjunction with Fanchon and Marco's gorgeous stage revue, "Tassels Idea."

Murray and Sidney as the two field marshalls of fun have one shell of a time finding the war. They went "over there" to fight for their country, but had more trouble catching up with the war than they had when they got to the front.

The delightful actress, Natalie

Kingston, plays the feminine lead in

"Lost at the Front," as a sculptress, furnishing the pivot for the romance threading the story. Charlie and George engage in a game of dodging both armies, and in so doing, disguise themselves as women, and get into what seems to be a parade of women, which proves to be a group of recruits for the Russian Battalion of Death.

Brilliantly conceived is Fanchon

Marco's latest triumph, "Tassel Idea", featuring Helene Hughes and Roy

Smoot, favorite song artists, who return engagements to local West Coast playhouses is always looked forward to as an event of importance

The adagio ensemble of all star dancers is said to be one of the most beautiful arrangements ever presented. A gorgeous climax brings the colorful stage spectacle to its finale.

Herb Hoey, the singing director, will again be heard in a solo number,

"Forgive Me," in addition to his directing the Al Lyons Band in a program of semi-classical and novelty numbers.

"Mona Lisa," an Our Gang comedy entitled "Bring Home the Turkey", and the International and local newsreel round out the excellent bill scheduled for theatregoers during this week.

BALBOA THEATRE

"Love your brother as yourself" is the theme of "The Sea Tiger", Milton

Sills' new starring picture which comes to the Balboa theatre for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Beautiful Mary Astor has the leading feminine role with Alice White,

Larry Kent, Arthur Stone, Kate Price

and other in splendid roles.

Sills has probably the outstanding part of his career in this colorful tale of the sea and the lives of men who go out to capture the denizens of the deep. Carey Wilson adapted the Mary Heaton Vorse story which appeared in Liberty Magazine as "The Runaway Enchantress."

Starting Sunday and for four days,
"No Man's Law," will be the feature screen attraction, starring Rex, the king of wild horses.

To Death Valley came two kinds of men—the hunted and the hunting!
"No Man's Law," the Hal Roach produced Pathe feature starring Rex, the king of wild horse, at the Balboa theatre, is a story of both, written by F.
Richard Jones and directed by Fred Jackman, who has directed all of the Rex dramas, of which this is said to be the strongest.

Starring in "No Man's Law" are James Finlayson, Barbara Kent,
Oliver Hardy and Theodore Von Eltz.
"No Man's Law" is said to be a picture of unusual dramatic climaxes, with Rex, Hal Roach's equine wonder, in the role of the girl's avenger.
Lady, Rex's mate, is in the picture with him, and two burros are used to provide comic relief.

Monday—Prune Charlotte

6 slices thinly sliced bread, well buttered
1 pound small prunes
1½ pints water
½ cupful sugar

Soak the prunes over night. In the morning remove pits and simmer until very tender, adding the sugar when nearly finished. Line a buttered dish with slices of buttered bread. Pour hot prunes with some of the juice over the bread, then repeat in layers until dish is full. Press a plate on top, and set away to chill for several hours.
Turn out on dish, and serve with sweet cream and sugar.

Tuesday—Raspberry Trifle

Place macaroons in bottom of sherbet glasses with a dab of raspberry jam or jelly on each. Line the glass with halved lady-fingers, and moisten lightly with orange juice. Fill glasses with sweetened and flavored whipped cream.

Wednesday—Prune Cream Mold

½ pound cooked prunes
3 tablespoonfuls cold water
½ cupful sugar
1 cupful whipped cream whites 2 eggs
1½ tablespoonfuls gelatine
½ cupful hot prune juice
1 tablespoonful lemon juice
½ inch piece stick cinnamon Cook the prunes as usual, adding the cinnamon and the sugar.
Strain and cut prunes into small pieces. Soak the gelatine in the cold water till soft, then add to the hot prune juice with the lemon juice. When cool and beginning to set, fold in the whipped cream and the beaten egg whites. Mold and chill well before serving.

Thursday—Orange Shortcake

2 cupfuls flour
3 tablespoonfuls shortening
1 tablespoonful sugar
¼ teaspoonful salt
4 teaspoonfuls baking powder
1 cupful milk
Sift together the dry ingredients, then cut in the shortening and moisten with the milk, making the mixture as soft as can be handled.
Divide the mixture into two parts, place half of it in the pan, spread with butter and place the second portion of dough, which has been rounded in shape, on top of the first. Bake the shortcake in a hot oven and while hot split and butter generously. Peel three or four oranges, remove all white skin, cut in small pieces and sugar. Let stand while cake is baking to draw as much juice as possible, then put between and on top of shortcake.

Friday—Prune Pudding with Whipped Cream Sauce

Soak and cook till tender half a pound of prunes, cool and remove pits, add to the pulp, one cupful of sugar, the grated rind of half a lemon, a small piece of stick cinnamon and one and a half cupfuls of boiling water. Simmer ten minutes. Meantime mix one-third cupful of cornstarch with enough water to make a liquid, add to the prune mixture and cook five minutes. Add the lemon juice, then pour into a serving dish. Serve warm or cold with whipped cream.

Saturday—Butterscotch Pudding

Cut enough stale bread in small bits to fill two cups lightly. Cover the bread with cold water and let it stand until it is very tender. About twenty minutes should suffice.
Meantime put a quart of milk over the fire to heat with half a teaspoonful of salt. Cook one cupful of brown sugar in a quarter cupful of butter until it reaches the taffy stage. Pour the hot milk over the candy and stir until it dissolves.
Next squeeze the bread perfectly dry and crumble it to bits, then add it to the hot milk and beat with eggs to a light foam and whip them into the bread and milk, beat well and add a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Then bake in a greased earthenware pudding dish for fifty to sixty minutes in a moderate oven.
This is a rich pudding and requires no sauce.

Sunday—Prune Moonshine

1 pound small prunes
1 pint water
¾ cupful sugar
1 cupful heavy cream
1 teaspoonful vanilla
Simmer the prunes after soaking them, until the water has almost evaporated. Press through a coarse sieve and add the sugar and vanilla. Chill, then fold in the cream whipped stiffly. Serve in tall slender glasses, decorating each with a maraschino cherry.

Oldest Protestant Church

J. Kirby Brown writes to the Church Forum asking whether the Fee Fee Baptist church, organized in 1807, at Pattonville, St. Louis county, should not rightfully have the title of "the oldest Protestant church west of the Mississippi river." Current reports have cited the First Presbyterian church, which is about 110 years old, as possessing this first distinction as to age. The point seems to be made, in behalf of the claim of the First Presbyterian congregation, that it held continuous services, while there appear to be times at Pattonville, perhaps during the Civil war, when the Fee Fee church was closed. The classification is made, "having continuous existence."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Thoughts came thick and fast to a man in Hove, England, recently when he slipped while standing in a bathtub. While falling, he said afterward, he had the following thoughts: (1) Will I break my neck? (2) Will there be an inquest? (3) Will my wife be put to any inconvenience giving testimony? (4) Will foul play be suspected by a silly jury? Fortunately all his questions were answered in the negative.

WORTH REMEMBERING

THERE is nothing more important to a household than the health of the mother. When going upstairs place the whole foot on the stair, keeping the body erect; this manner of climbing stairs will not strain any muscle unduly.

When it is necessary to clean upholstered furniture in the house, cover with a dampened cloth and beat, unless you are fortunate enough to have a vacuum cleaner.

When raisins and prunes stick to the paper or carton, steam slightly for a moment over the teakettle.

Infant, no matter how young, should be given frequent drinks of pure water. A bottle is the best way to give it until the child is old enough to drink from a cup or spoon.

Orange and tomato juice (strained) for babies is a most wholesome and refreshing drink; begin when the child is three months old to serve it every day. For an older child who needs a laxative the following is one that any mother need not fear to administer and the child will enjoy taking it: Grind through a meat grinder one pound each of prunes (softened), figs, dates and raisins, and keep in a cool place. For a child a piece the size of a pecan will be sufficient for an adult, a larger piece. This is a good laxative to take with one on a journey; it is agreeable and easy to take.

Citron meringue if grated then preserved may be used for many dishes which call for the dried citron. It is especially good for garnishes, for ice cream and puddings; dried slightly and sugared, may be used for confections and cake decorations. In the picnic meat it is a great addition. Its delicate flavor adding much to the taste of the time-honored pie filling.

One may boil a pudding in a double boiler, saving time and trouble. Line the upper part of the double boiler with oiled paper and turn in the pudding to be steamed. When done it will come out in good form.

YOUR CHIEF CONCERNS

ALL the happiness you have in the world is the happiness you carry with you.

The flowers may be waking up and smiling after their winter's sleep; the birds may be making love, singing and building nests; the carpet on the hills may be strewn with violets; the children may be romping and laughing in the sunlit parks and along the roadways, but if there is a grain of discontent, or a grain of anger in your heart, you are not carrying with you your share of the world's joys.

To be every whit happy, you must stretch out your heart's hands and press to your breast all the happiness that belongs to you.

It is everywhere around you, waiting for your embrace.

Don't overlook it in the morning when you open your eyes to the new day, for it is then you need it most to lighten your feet and to sweeten your voice.

A soft word at the breakfast table bids joy a welcome for the whole day.

A certain sort of qualification is necessary to enable you to pick the roses of cheer that grow along your path without pricking your fingers with thorns, but a little practice in the right spirit will soon impart to your heart's hand wonderful proficiency.

This talent, like the roses, must be cultivated to bring out the delectable colors, the exquisite form and the delicious odors.

No one can do it for you. You must dig and rake in all kinds of weather; and especially when clouds of ill-humor darken the cheery blue and threaten with storm.

The world is what you make it, bright with sunshine or somber with scurrying frowns.

And so is your disposition, and to go a little deeper, so is your spirit which casts its potent spell on others and comes back to you bearing with it the seeds or the smiles with which you sent it out.

Pack your soul with good cheer. Offer it with liberal hands to the weary and worn, to the discontented and the trouble mongers.

Begin today, and observe the change that comes over your enemies, the gladness with which they greet you, the faith that wells up in your heart and the divine love that permeates your whole being, and fits you for the good things of life and the better things of eternity, which ought always to be your chief concern.

UPS AND DOWNS

By SYDNEY J. BURGOWNE

WHEN life has dealt you a mighty clout
And you take a fall, a-kiting,
When you sure are "down" and almost "out"—
That's when you must keep on fighting

There isn't one-half the need to stick
When everything's fine and dandy;
Don't be a quitter, but just a "brick"
—When your fighting comes in handy.

The "ups" and "downs" will always come,
And the man for the victor's crown
Is the one who keeps on making things hum,
When the whole world says he's "down."

So it's just how you take the "downs" of life,
Which shows the stuff you're made of;
And you'll prove when getting the worst of the strife,
That there's nothing to be afraid of!

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

BODIES ON SHIPBOARD

REAL deep-water sailors who go down to the sea in "wind-jammers" are as uneasy today and as confidently expect trouble when a dead body is on board as they did in the days when Shakespeare's sailor in "Pericles" insists that the body of the queen be thrown overboard as "the sea works high, the wind is loud and will not lie till the ship be cleared of the dead." And long before the age of Shakespeare or the "Prince of Tyre" the superstition existed.

Old Fuller says of the transportation of the body of St. Louis: "His body was carried back to France, there to be buried, and was most miserably tossed, it being observed that the sea cannot digest the crudity of a dead corpse, being a due debt to be interred where it dieth, and a ship cannot abide to be made a bier of."

Then there is the story of the attempt to carry the body of St. Cuthbert into Ireland, when the "sea worked high" and drove back the ship upon the English shore. And there are any number of ancient stories of the same sort. Should new and modern ones to like effect be required they can be picked up along the waterfront of any great seaport.

This superstition had its origin in the association of ideas, and Capt. Basil Hall, in his book of "Travels" in the early part of the last century, gives an excellent explanation of its genesis. He says: "This superstition is easily accounted for among men whose entire lives are passed, as it were, on the very verge of the grave, and who have quite enough, as they suppose, to remind them of their mortality without the actual presence of its effects." The knowledge of the silent passenger down below gets on the sailor's nerves, makes him apprehensive; and if a storm does come, what more natural than to ascribe it to the presence of the corpse?

The Sepoy Mutiny

A FEW pots of grease cost many thousand lives and nearly $200,000,000 in India, about half a century ago, besides inaugurating one of the bloodiest tragedies ever enacted.

India's history, down to the Seventeenth century, is largely a chronicle of barbarism, internecine wars, invasions and Oriental intrigue, with a growing European influence in the most accessible districts. The vast country was teeming with wealth of a sort that attracted Europe's covetous eye. The Portuguese won a commercial foothold there, only to be driven from power by the Dutch, who in time were crowded out by English and French. Last of all, the French were routed by the English, until, by 1769, England practically ruled India. Clive, Warren Hastings, Lord Cornwallis and other governors brought the whole territory either directly or indirectly under British sway.

The natives were untrustworthy. The Indian potentates whose power was checked and a horde of fanatics whose religious rites had been curtailed by the foreign rule were ever stirring up revolt against their new masters. Hence it was necessary to maintain a large army in India. England could not spare a sufficient force of white men for the purpose, so organized native regiments, under British officers, and trained them along European lines. These native troops were called Sepoys (from the Persian word "sipahi," signifying "soldier"), and proved splendidly efficient in repeated campaigns. Thus, by 1856, all India seemed safe and moderately content under British domination. True, there were countless fanatics and unscrupulous native rulers who waited only the opportunity to rebel; but for a long time they lacked the chance. That same "chance" came about in an unforeseen fashion. Like most misfortunes of this sort, it was brought about and then augmented by blunders on the part of the British government.

Several English regiments had been withdrawn from northern and central India to serve in the Crimean war. Others were away in Burma. These departures left barely eighteen white regiments available for action. Several of the most important arsenals and garrisons were in charge of the Sepoys. At about this time the Enfield rifle was adopted for use among the Sepoys. In loading the rifle it was necessary to bite off the end of the cartridges. These cartridges were coated with grease. They were also packed in glazed paper. The foregoing facts seem mere trifles, yet they brought on a bloody insurrection.

The Sepoy regiments were made up of Mahometans and Buddhists. As the English very well knew, the Buddhists and Mahometans alike are forbidden by the most sacred laws of their religion from eating or even handling pork. At once it was claimed by native rulers, agitators and fanatics that the fat of swine was used in greasing the cartridges and glazing the paper. To this was added the rumor that the government was seeking to force the native troops to embrace Christianity, by making them violate their own creed. At once fanaticism blazed into furious revolt. A devout Christian could not be more indignant at being commanded to stamp on the crucifix than were these Muslim and Hindu devotees at the order to defile their souls by handling and tasting pork-fat. Several Sepoy regiments refused to receive the cartridges, and even rebelled. They were disbanded, and the government tardily "called in" the hated articles of ammunition.

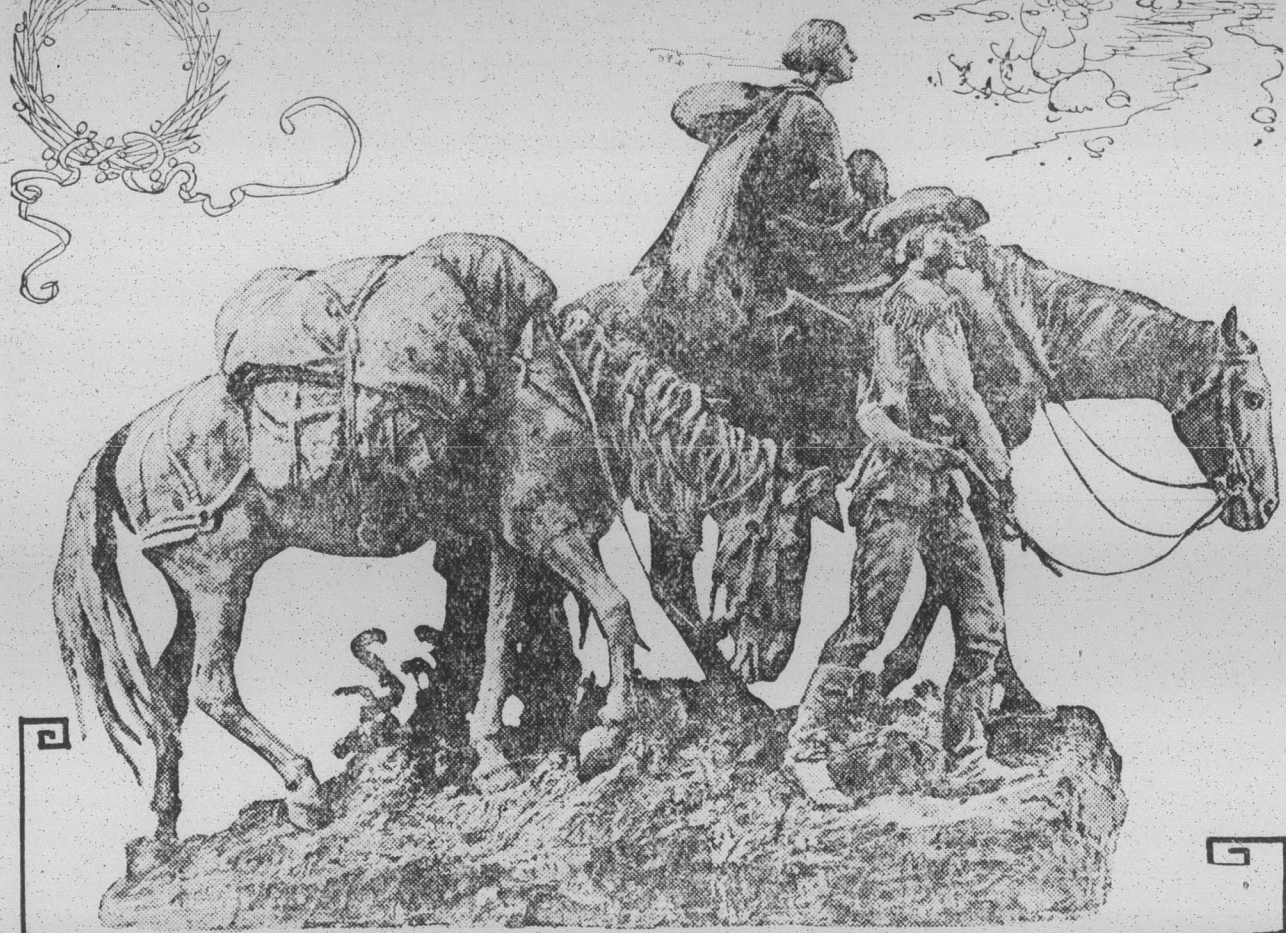

On May 2, 1857, a cavalry regiment was ordered, by error, to bite the greased cartridges, in loading their guns. They refused and were forcibly disbanded. This was the signal for general revolt. At Meerut, a few miles northeast of Delhi, the Sepoys and townsfolk rose together, massacred the British garrison and white residents and marched to Delhi. They captured the latter city and made it the headquarters of the mutiny. The whole Bengal presidency revolted and Europeans were massacred wholesale amid the most unspeakable outrages. Nana Sahib, maharajah of Bithur, loudly proclaimed his loyalty to the government, but at the first opportunity went over to the mutineers. He besieged Cawnpore. On his solemn promise of safe-conduct the garrison at last surrendered. As soon as they were at his mercy he murdered them, massacring 210 English women and children who had sought refuge in the town. Lucknow and other cities garrisoned by the English were besieged, and throughout northern and central India British rule was nearly extinct.

The government at last awoke to the peril. Armies under Havelock, Outram, Campbell and other generals were sent to stamp out the mutiny. Lucknow was relieved when at the last gasp, and within a year the final sparks of insurrection were quenched. Then the British wreaked fearful vengeance on their beaten foes.

The mutiny brought about a radical change in England's mode of ruling her East Indian possessions. In 1876 Benjamin Disraeli, premier of Great Britain, framed the "Royal Titles Act," making Queen Victoria empress of India, and, incidentally, securing for himself the title of earl of Beaconsfield by way of reward.

Women Who Helped Win the West

THE PIONEER MOTHER MONUMENT, KANSAS CITY

Keystone Photo

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

N SUNDAY, May 8, the heart of America will be quickened at the thought of one word—"Mother." For that is Mother's day, an annual event which is generally observed, not by Presidential proclamation, legislative enactment or church dictum, but because sentiment decrees that the second Sunday in May of each year shall be the day upon which we honor the women who gave us birth.

Mother's day this year has a special significance because of at least two distinct projects which are under way to honor one of the most heroic types of motherhood the world has ever known—the pioneer mother of America. And in both cases the honoring will be done in memorials of everlasting bronze.

One of them is the announced purpose of E. W. Marland, an Oklahoma oil millionaire, of erecting a heroic statue of "The Pioneer Woman" on the famous Cherokee Strip in Oklahoma, the last government land opened to homesteaders. Twelve of the leading sculptors of America have submitted models from which he is to select one for the completed work. An exhibit of these models is being sent to various cities throughout the Middle West and Far West and the public is to be given a chance, by popular vote in each city, to aid Mr. Marland in making his selection, by which, it is hoped, the model best interpreting the pioneer woman will be chosen.

"The Pioneer Mother" is to be immortalized in bronze in another western city when the monument by that name (shown in the illustration above) is unveiled in Penn Valley park in Kansas City this spring. This monument is the work of A. Phimister Proctor, noted for his statue of Col. Theodore Roosevelt as a Rough Rider which stands in Portland, Ore., as well as for several other fine pieces of work in other cities. It will be presented to Kansas City by Howard Vanderveer, who, as a baby, was carried in the arms of his pioneer mother from Kentucky over a westward trail to the Indian lands of Kansas, in just such a manner as that depicted in Proctor's statutory group.

It is especially appropriate that this memorial should stand in Kansas City with the face of the pioneer mother turned to the great trans-Missouri West. For the site of Kansas City is historic ground. In this vicinity were the eastern terminus of two great highways—the Santa Fe trail and the Oregon trail—over which the stream of emigration poured into the last American wilderness. The Santa Fe trail was primarily an artery of commerce, but the Oregon trail was a homeseeker's highway to the gold fields of California and to the rich valleys of Oregon and Washington. The epic of the Oregon trail has been written many times and in many different ways so that the picture of the women of the "Covered Wagon" era is as clear in our minds as that of the men of those days.

But it should not be forgotten that the mothers of that period were not the first to be cast in heroic roles in the mighty drama of the westward

The Prairie Mother

She came to rock the cradle of a new empire. Adventure calls to men, but duty summons women. And so when the time was ripe to breed new stars for the flag, she set forth from Maine and Ohio and Kentucky's loveliness and her Swedish village and her flord home to mother the wilderness.

Only God and she knows the fullness of her giving to the young Northwest.

She lived in sod houses and hay-roofed huts, with the nearest neighbor often a day's trudge away.

She had no deceptions. She did not even know the luxury of floor or fireplace. Her meal was ground in a hand mill and her baking range was a makeshift oven in the yard.

She helped in the fields—at the plowing and the sowing, and she helped to scythe the crop and bind the sheaves.

She watered stock and spun and knitted and tailored. She made a garden and preserved the winter food, milked her cows and nursed her children. The steady-eyed sun found her already at her tasks, and the mid-moon heard her crouch the baby to rest.

Her "beauty sleep" began at ten and ended at four. Year in and year out, she never had an ounce of a box of sweets or a gift of remembrance.

She fought drought and death and savages and savage loneliness. Her "Sunday bests" were calico and linen worksey. She grew old at the rate of twenty-four months a year at the grubbing hoe and the washtub and the churn.

She bore her babies alone and buried them on the frozen prairie.

But she asked no pity for her broken arches, her aching back, her poor, gnarled hands. Or for the wistful memories of a fairer youth in sweeter lands.

She gave America the great Northwest, and was too proud to quibble at the cost of the stalwart sons to whom she willed it.

"She mothered MEN,"—Herbert Kaufman in the Minneapolis (Minn.) Tribune.

push of the dominant white race. History is full of the pioneer fathers, but, except for a few outstanding incidents and personages, it has said little about the pioneer mothers. To trace their history it is necessary to go back 300 years to the first settlements on the "stern and rock-bound coast" of New England and to remember that every privation, every suffering from cold and hunger, every danger from hostile red men which the Pilgrim Fathers endured, was also endured by the Pilgrim Mothers.

The first American frontier was the gloomy woods which fringed the shore of the Atlantic seaboard and held the first settlers close to the water's edge. This first frontier produced the American frontiersman, one of the hardest types mankind has ever known. And it produced, too, the American frontierswoman who was a fit mate for such a man. She did her share in making a home and when it was necessary she could handle the rifle and the ax to defend that home. Who has not heard the oft-repeated tale of Hannah Dustin (or Dustan) the Massachusetts heroine of King Philip's war in New England who proved with her good right arm the heroic quality of the pioneer mother defending her children?

When the frontier was pushed back to the summit of the Appalachian mountains the pioneer mother stood beside her man and looked down into the fertile Ohio valley and saw with him the vision of their future home. She also faced the unknown terrors of the "Dark and Bloody Ground" of Kentucky and helped him hold it against the frenzied attempts of the Indians to elect the white man from his best-loved hunting ground. In that dark period of 20 years—from the outbreak of the Revolution to the time of "Mad Anthony" Wayne's victory over the confederated tribes of the Northwest—when the fate of the white settlement in the Mississippi valley hung in the balance, it was the pioneer woman quite as much as the pioneer man who decided the issue.

But not all of the courage of the pioneer mother was shown when it came to a hand-to-hand encounter. So long as Kentuckians repeat the stories heard at their mothers' knees, so long will they tell of the women of Bryant's Station. Those were the women who, when the station was surrounded by Indians, volunteered to go to a spring nearby and bring the water which the defenders of the fort would need so badly when the battle began. The Indians were "lying low" preparing for a surprise attack. If the men went for water the attack would be precipitated. If the women went as usual, the savages MIGHT refrain from revealing their presence by attacking the water-bearers. Again they might not. It was a fearful chance those women took. But they took it, walked steadily down to the spring, conscious all the time of snake-like eyes glittering at them from the bushes close at hand, filled their buckets and walked steadily back to the safety of the stockaded walls. And they didn't spill a drop of water! That was the type of courage these pioneer mothers possessed.

But hostile Indians were not the only foe which the pioneer mother faced and conquered. She faced and conquered the terrors of loneliness in isolated cabins, of starvation, of bitter winters and sultry summers, whose stagnation brought sickness and death to her and her family with no doctors within hundreds of miles. Too often was it true that—

My mother she was merry and brave, And so she came to her labor, With a tall green fir for a doctor grave And a stream for a comforting neighbor.

"The Ballad of William Sycamore"—Benet.

When the American frontier crossed the Mississippi and the last westward push began, in the forefront of that long line of historic figures which make up the splendid pageant of the West was the figure which dominates the group by Proctor—the figure of the pioneer mother, her baby in her arms and her face turned toward the west. Forgetful of the terrors she had known in the forests of the East, she braved the terrors of the great plains and mountains of the West, flooded rivers, prairie fires, snow-filled mountain passes, Indian attacks, hunger and thirst and sickness could not hold her back. Her face was turned to the west and when she had followed the "star of empire" to her goal she had helped build a nation.

Canadians Were Slow to Take Liking to Skis

Skis were in use in Scandinavia long before the Christian era, and Xenophon relates that ancient Armenians even had their horses trained to walk over the deep snow on a similar device.

Their introduction in America, however, was comparatively recent. Lord Frederic Hamilton, who traveled widely in the interests of the British court, related: "I can claim to be the pioneer of the ski on the American continent, for in January, 1887, I brought over to Canada the very first pair of skis ever seen in America. I used to coast down the toboggan slides at Ottawa on them amidst universal derision. I was told that however useful skis might be in Russia, where I had learned to use them, they were quite unsuited to Canadian conditions, and would never be popular there as the old-fashioned 'raquettes' were infinitely superior."—Kansas City Star.

Engineer Cressy Praises Tanlac

Fermentation, Bloating, Nervousness and Constipation Relieved. Health Restored. Gains 26 Pounds

"Tanlac did me so much good that I have been boasting it whenever I could," says B. Cressy, 959 Ellis St., San Francisco, a well-known electrical engineer.

"Stomach trouble was the seat of my trouble. Whatever I ate did not digest. I would lie in the pit of my stomach and ferment, cause gas that bloated my stomach and pained me. Often this trouble was so bad I could hardly breathe. I was always constipated and lost weight fast. Of course I was nervous and at night I never slept soundly."

"Then a lady advised me to take Tanlac. I did with wonderful results. I digested all stomach trouble, gained an appetite, cleansed my system of constipation and built up my strength. I have gained 26 pounds since taking Tanlac. And never felt better."

Take Tanlac for better health, for strength. First bottle shows amazing results. At your druggist's. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Modern Babes

Bobby, age six, had been quite naughty, and had received a rather old-fashioned spanking. Jane, recently started to Sunday school, was horrified at Bobby's quick recovery from the affair, and, seeking to bring him to deeper repentance, asked him whether he were not sorry to have been so bad that he had to be spanked.

He said: "Daddy will know it,

When Your Ship Comes In From Hawaii

EVERYBODY watches for a ship to come in, a ship that will bring some long-looked-for happiness, some especial joy. The cargoes are all different, but they carry in small or large parcels the fulfillment of wishes, even the most triding.

The housekeeper who really cares for her job is full of wishes, and mostly they center around some new concoction to set before her family at dinner. She loves to see the happy surprise on their faces and hear their pleased comments. The ship of recent date that gave her most cause for gratitude was that which brought to her pantry shelves canned Hawaiian pineapple. She added it to many recipes and made it the "raison d'être" of many others, before unknown, and offered to her family for their delectation.

Housewives who have tried only a few ways of serving pineapple may be glad to experiment with the following recipes which have been tested by well-qualified cooks and found good. There is a recipe here for almost every course.

SAUTEED PINEAPPLE: Sliced Hawaiian canned pineapple browned in butter and put around chicken, turkey, or any of the light meats makes not only an attractive decoration but adds piquancy to the meat. Instead of the sauté, a can of pineapple may be emptied into a shallow dish, each slice by itself and not overlapping and allowed to simmer in the juice until the fruit is clear. Decorate a platter with this in the same way.

Fry bacon and remove to hot platter and keep hot. Season a little flour with salt and pepper, dip sliced canned pineapple into the flour covering both sides and brown in the hot bacon fat. Serve with lettuce.

Pineapple may be used in numerous ways as an ingredient in salads but the very best combination of all, a salad that may be used as a course at dinner or that is satisfying enough to form the main dish at luncheon is called:

"BEST OF ALL" SALAD: Make on individual plates a fairly substantial bed of finely shredded lettuce. Cover with celery thinly sliced crosswise. Lay on this a slice of canned pineapple. Cover the center with a square of cream cheese. Around the pineapple place prunes that have been stoned and stuffed with walnuts. Either mayonnaise or oil and lemon dressing may be used.

Almost any fruit cup is improved by the addition of canned pineapple. The following are favorite combinations:

FAVORITE FRUIT CUP: Put in layers of sherbet glasses diced apple, diced banana, crushed (or sliced, cut in small pieces) pineapple. Fill the glass with the juice of preserved strawberry or cherry. Top with whipped cream.

WATERMELON AND PINEAPPLE: Seed and cut into small pieces the red part of a watermelon. Mix with cut, sliced canned Hawaiian pineapple. A few seedless raisins with this adds character both in looks and taste.

CANTALOUPE AND PINEAPPLE: Cantaloupe may be substituted for watermelon in the above recipe. Fresh strawberries, walnuts and sliced pineapple also make a pleasing fruit cup.

A hot pineapple dessert that always finds favor is

PINEAPPLE SOUFFLE: Melt 2 tablespoons shortening; add 4 tablespoons flour and stir till smooth. Add 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 cup milk, and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Take from fire and mix in the well-beaten yolks of 3 eggs, then 1 can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Fold in stiffly beaten whites of 3 eggs, pour into a greased baking-dish, set in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven. Serve immediately.

PLAIN PINEAPPLE HARD SAUCE: Cream thoroughly 4 tablespoons butter with 1/2 cup sugar. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 cup drained crushed pineapple.

PINEAPPLE-EGG SAUCE: Beat well the whites of 4 eggs, adding 2 tablespoons sugar and beat again. Add 2 cups crushed Hawaiian pineapple, drained. Beat well and serve.

COOL PINEAPPLE DRINKS: In making all drinks it is better to boil the sugar in water first and cool before adding the fruits. Using 2 cups water and one of sugar as a foundation, delightful drinks may be made by adding the juice of 3 lemons, 3 oranges, and the juice from 1 can of sliced Hawaiian pineapple. Or, add to this a pint of freshly infused tea, thoroughly cooled. Or, without the tea (as desired) add a bottle of ginger ale.
